

Sula Marks the Start of the Year with The Source Chardonnay Reserve launch

As the new year unfolds, Sula Vineyards, India's most awarded and pioneering wine producer, announces the launch of The Source Chardonnay Reserve, the newest addition to its premium The Source portfolio. Crafted from select, high-quality vineyards and thoughtfully oak-fermented, this dry white wine presents an elegant and expressive interpretation of Chardonnay—balancing richness, layered complexity and refreshing finesse.

A medium-bodied wine with 13% ABV, The Source Chardonnay Reserve opens with inviting honeyed aromas, followed by soft vanilla notes on the palate. Smooth and beautifully structured, it highlights the depth and texture imparted by oak fermentation while preserving vibrant freshness, resulting in a refined and harmonious profile.

Created for elevated dining moments and special occasions, the wine pairs seamlessly with creamy pastas, grilled seafood, roast chicken and artisanal cheeses. The Source range has steadily earned acclaim among wine enthusiasts for its terroir-led expressions and uncompromising quality. With the successful introduction of six standout wines—including the much-acclaimed Pinot Noir—the portfolio continues to expand with intent and precision. The Source Chardonnay Reserve marks another milestone in this journey, rooted in meticulous vineyard selection, mindful winemaking and a deep respect for terroir.

Commenting on the launch, Gorakh Gaikwad, COO and Chief Winemaker at Sula Vineyards, said:

“With The Source Chardonnay Reserve, we set out to capture the elegance of Chardonnay when handled with care and precision. Oak fermentation brings depth and texture, while natural freshness keeps the wine balanced and approachable. It's a Chardonnay defined by smoothness, complexity and quiet confidence—an ideal way to begin the new year.”
